

“Everything We Need Right Here...”

NDH Medical Chooses Pinellas for Expansion

It is no surprise that NDH Medical Inc. plans to stay in Pinellas County as it expands operations; the area has proven itself as an ideal business location for the company since 1995. Geary A. Havran, President and Chairman of the Board of NDH Medical, explains, “Pinellas is home to a very significant medical device industry cluster, which provides an environment conducive to our manufacturing operations. We’ve found success here in the past and know we’ll continue to find it here in the future.” The company is increasing its facility size to more than double its existing space and plans to add 12 new jobs in the next two years.

Located within the city of St. Petersburg, NDH Medical is a contract medical device manufacturer specializing in custom extrusion of single-lumen, paratubing, multi-lumen, taper, and co-extruded tubing as well as wire and coil jacketing. Insert molding, injection molding, pad printing, assembly, and other services are provided in the company’s Pinellas County facilities, as are in-house tooling design and fabrication. When asked about NDH’s commitment to excellence, Havran says, “We serve customers locally, throughout the country and internationally, striving to make customer service and product quality priorities. We know that highly-skilled employees are paramount to meeting those goals and we encourage our staff members to continually grow and expand their abilities.”

The company also understands the value and importance of supporting the industry in which it operates. Havran is a founding member and Chairman of the Florida Medical Manufacturers' Consortium \(FMMC\), an industry forum dedicated to furthering the interests of Florida's medical manufacturers by providing opportunities for industry members to assist each other, interface with academic institutions and promote the mutual interests of the industry and the community. FMMC develops interactive forums, academic and mentoring collaborations and works with economic development agencies to further enhance growth in the medical device industry.

Working closely with Pinellas County Economic Development \(PCED\), NDH Medical has benefitted from the agency's expertise in business retention and expansion. PCED assisted the company in its search for appropriate facilities and regularly joins forces with the FMMC to support the medical device industry. Havran credits the county's availability of quality manufacturing space, access to international markets, and PCED's ability to locate properties using tools such as its Real Estate Database, as driving reasons behind the decision to continue expanding in Pinellas. "We have everything we need right here in Pinellas and we're excited to expand locally," says Havran.
